

Medical Device and Procedures

We are an undisputed leader in medical device IP Law, having filed more than 5,000 patent applications in the medical device arts alone, helped over 50 medical device companies get acquired or go public, and successfully litigated numerous medical device IP cases, including through trial and appeal.

We've been active in the medical device industry almost from its inception—providing leading-edge counsel and representation for the entire spectrum of clients, including “garage” inventors, start-up companies, venture capitalists, medical device incubators, and established, publicly held-corporations.

We're the first law firm with a portal devoted to fostering opportunities within the Medical Device Industry. Find out more at KnobbeMedical.com.

Selected Client Victories & Accomplishments

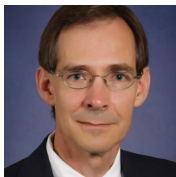

- Firm client CoreValve, Inc. was acquired by Medtronic, Inc. for $700 million plus additional contingent milestone payments. Knobbe Martens served as intellectual property prosecution, diligence, as well as litigation counsel for CoreValve, the developer of a transcatheter aortic valve replacement.
- Start-up and firm client Visiogen, Inc., an ophthalmic start-up developing innovative intraocular lenses, was acquired by Abbott Medical Optics for $400 million. In addition to representing Visiogen in acquisition diligence, Knobbe Martens was involved with building the client's patent portfolio.
- The firm represented Masimo, Corp., a manufacturer of non-invasive patient monitoring technologies, in a patent infringement case involving pulse oximeters. After trial and appeal, Masimo settled the case and received $330 million and additional future royalties. In addition to handling the litigation, Knobbe Martens also continues to build and manage Masimo's extensive intellectual property portfolio.
- The firm represented C.R. Bard, Inc. in its acquisition of SenoRx, a developer of minimally invasive medical devices for the treatment of breast cancer. SenoRx was acquired for about $213 million. Knobbe Martens conducted extensive target diligence on SenoRx, analyzing over 1,200 patents in under three weeks in advising C.R. Bard on the transaction.
